EISENHOWER DIRECTS THE FIRST PHASE OF HISTORY'S GREATEST LANDING OPERATION AS 'D' DAY ARRIVES; PROMISE OF SUCCESSION OF SURPRISES FOR ENEMY

11,000 PLANES GIVE SUPPORT AS TROOPS, MASSIVE GUNS, ETC. REACH FRENCH COAST

By International News Service
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 6—Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, deputy invasion commander in charge of ground troops, today expressed overwhelming conviction the present attack will succeed. "I personally have absolute and complete confidence in the outcome," he said.

AN ALLIED CAMP SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, June 6—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower pressed the button for Allied invasion of Europe early today from this tented camp in the depth of the sleeping English countryside.

Here in a motor trailer he is directing the first phase of history's greatest amphibious operation far from his great base headquarters and surrounded only by a nucleus unit of his field commanders and his ace staff officers. It was at night that Eisenhower, serene and confident, made his great decision. Final weather forecasts determined the choice and next morning the supreme commander held another conference to confirm it.

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Supported by 11,000 planes, thousands of ships and hundreds of massive guns, American British and Allied troops landed in France by barge, glider and parachute today in an effort to seize the whole coast between Le Havre and Cherbourg and all indications pointed to success in the initial stages.

Some time after Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower gave the signal for invasion to launch the long-awaited Battle of Europe, Prime Minister Winston Churchill went before the House of Commons to report that airborne aspects of the stupendous operations had been "successfully effected" while landings from the sea were still in progress.

At intervals of only a few minutes during the day, German broadcasting stations and the official propaganda agency DNB reported continued new Allied landings at numerous points under an overwhelming aerial cover and naval barrage.

Reports from operational commanders said the invasion was proceeding according to plan and—as Churchill put it—"what a plan."

The German air force apparently offered little opposition and many of the enemy's shore batteries were knocked out of action, while Churchill said that German sea fortifications had proved far less formidable than anticipated.

Midget "Subs" Aid in "D" Day; Secretly Mark The Invasion Coast

FRANCE LOOMS AS A MAJOR PROBLEM

Problem Faces Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower As A Political Headache

A KNOTTY QUESTION

By William W. Wade
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 6—(INS)—The great problem of France torn by Nazi rule and France soon to be redeemed today faces General Dwight D. Eisenhower as one of the foremost of his political-military headaches.

The liberation of North Africa, the occupation of Sicily and the invasion of Italy brought knotty, sometimes unpredictable political issues in their wake and even now the freeing of France promises to do the same.

Frenchmen in and out of their country are dreaming of this freedom; other Frenchmen, those who are riding the Nazi tiger, are dreading it. But even among those who hope for liberation, and who also are on Allied territory and hence are able to speak, there is no great unanimity of future national aims.

Apparent friction between De Gaulle and Giraud, failure of the United States to recognize unqualifiedly the French Committee of National Liberation and dissatisfaction in Algiers over Britain's ban on the movement of diplomats already have foreshadowed other international stresses and strains.

But whatever friction there is among Frenchmen outside France, it is nothing compared with the strife and hatred within the country. So tense is the situation that even aging Marshal Petain has seen fit to warn of the danger of outright civil war.

This state of internal conflict, presently still under German and Vichy control, has produced enough information to give the Allies some guide as to who the main French collaborationists are. Certain of the leaders of Vichy definitely can be placed on the United Nations blacklist; others are more doubtful.

No one, either inside or outside France, regards Petain as an effective leader. It is possible that the Allies will be able to offer him honorable surrender and retirement.

Pierre Laval, notorious for his pasty complexion, shifty eyes and white ties, cannot be regarded as anything but an enemy by free Frenchmen and the resistance movement. He has long since thrown in his lot with the Germans and probably will be listed as Traitor No. 1.

Close behind him and today even considered as a contestant for first place is Joseph Darnand, who in recent months has become the most prominent tool of the Germans.

Darnand, long convinced of Nazi

INVASION ADVANCING ACCORDING TO PLAN; "AND WHAT A PLAN," STATES CHURCHILL

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Mass Allied airborne landings have been successfully effected behind the enemy lines in France, Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced in the House of Commons today.

"Landings on the beaches are proceeding at various points," he said.

"An armada of upwards of 4,000 ships with several thousand small craft have crossed the Channel," Churchill said.

"Massed airborne landings have been successfully effected behind the enemy's lines.

"This is the first of a series of landings in force on the European continent. Landings on the beaches are proceeding at various points.

"So far the commanders engaged report that everything is proceeding according to plan—and what a plan.

"This vast operation is undoubtedly the most complicated and difficult that has ever occurred.

"We shall furnish the enemy with a succession of surprises during the course of the fighting. The battle will grow constantly in scale and intensity for many weeks to come.

"I shall not attempt to speculate upon its course but this I may say—that complete unity prevails throughout the Allied armies.

"There is a brotherhood in arms between us and our friends of the United States.

"The ardor and spirit of our troops, as I saw for myself as they were embarking in the last few days, was splendid to witness."

The Prime Minister indicated he would announce further news later in the day.

Invasion Troops Land In Overwhelming Strength On Beaches

ARRAY OF WARSHIPS

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Allied invasion troops opened the Battle of Europe today with a deep penetration by American and British parachute forces far behind the coast of northern France and landing in overwhelming strength along the beaches between the Seine River and Cherbourg.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower launched the long-awaited attack with an order of the day in which he proclaimed:

"We will accept nothing less than full victory."

American, British and Canadian warships in stupendous array and ranging from battleships down to landing craft escorts supported the cross-Channel landings while the Allied air force operating in enormous strength shielded the paratroopers.

German broadcasts reported heavy fighting in the vicinity of Caen, 7½ miles inland and said that paratrooper landings had been made at numerous points between Cherbourg and Le Havre.

"D" DAY BRIEFS

NEW YORK, June 6—(INS)—A small group of German destroyers was "wiped out" by Allied warships in the preliminary phase of the northern France invasion, a Blue Network reporter announced today from London.

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Special invasion services were held in Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral and churches throughout the United Kingdom today. The House of Commons went into session.

CALL TO PRAYER

"If My people which are called by My name shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from Heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land". (2nd Chron. 7:14).

Today is a day of prayer throughout the land. Anticipating "D" day, pastors and priests had suggested that their people enter the church of their choice on the day when the European invasion by Allied troops opened. Today is that day.

In following this plan many churches in Bristol and vicinity are open throughout today and this evening, also some on subsequent days, to afford those who desire an opportunity to enter for prayer—prayer for guidance for Allied leaders, and strength for the men and women of the armed forces.

A union prayer service of Bristol churches is arranged for this evening at the hour of seven in Bristol Methodist Church. Pastors are invited to participate, and all individuals are welcome to join this service.

Pastors and priests of the following churches announce that their churches will be open throughout today for the purpose of prayer: Bristol Presbyterian, First Baptist, St. Mark's Catholic, Bristol Methodist, Calvary Baptist, St. James' Episcopal, St. Ann's Catholic. On subsequent days the two Catholic churches, also St. James' and Calvary Baptist will also be open. In Calvary Baptist Church tomorrow evening at eight o'clock there will be a special call to prayer, and in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Croydon, a prayer meeting is arranged for tonight at eight.

Fingers are flying today as they never flew before at the headquarters of the surgical dressings department of Bristol Branch, American Red Cross, in the municipal building, Dorrance and Cedar streets.

Women who have been giving time each week to the cause had planned to do so definitely on "D" or invasion day, regardless of what day of the week it might be. As it occurred on one of the regular surgical dressing days, the workers decided to make it an extra long day, and commencing early this morning after hearing the news, they are hard at work and plan to remain until 9:30 tonight.

The quarters will also be open all day tomorrow, from 10 a. m. to four p. m.

Two Men Held For Court After Early Morning Fight

Benjamin Fusco, Radcliffe and Monroe streets, was held in $500 bail yesterday charged with surety of peace and disorderly conduct. The charges were preferred by Miss Vivienne Holden, while the charge of assault and battery was lodged by Joseph Popkin.

John Carleo, Cedar street, was held in $1200 bail for court charged with assault and battery by Popkin and assault and battery by Miss Holden and charged with malicious mischief by Linford J. Jones, chief of police.

The charges were the outgrowth of an argument and a fight between Popkin and Carleo which occurred at Pond and Mulberry streets early Monday morning. Popkin, accompanied by Miss Holden and Mrs. Benjamin Fusco, told Justice of Peace Edward Lynn that while they were driving along the Bristol Pike at Tullytown early Monday morning, Fusco stopped them at Tullytown and argued with Popkin and endeavored to drag him from his automobile.

Popkin started the car, it is said, while Fusco was on the running board and then Fusco jumped off. Popkin drove to the Municipal Building and while en route was halted when the Fusco automobile "cut in" front of him on Pond street.

All parties met at Pond and Mulberry streets, and it is there that the alleged fight took place. Popkin and Carleo went through the hedge and damaged it and then Miss Holden said that one of the two grabbed her and tore her dress. She said Carleo struck her across the face.

Carleo also flooded the cell in the police station and it was on the charge of damaging borough's property that he was charged by Chief Jones.

STUDENTS AGAIN ASK SCHOOL BOARD ABOUT THE FIELD

Group Attends Meeting and Inquires If Any Action Has Been Taken

GIFT BOOK INQUIRY

Ask Permission To Spend $100 Book Appropriation For Some Other Purpose

Three seniors and one junior, Bristol high school students, attended the school board meeting last night. Two of them addressed the body.

Calvin Solla, asked the Board if any action had been taken upon the petition recently filed with the Board by the student body in which reconstruction of the high school athletic field was requested.

President of the Board McEuen replied that the Finance Committee of the Board was making a survey to determine some of the things necessary for the betterment of the schools and that this survey had not as yet been completed.

Jack Sirott inquired if it was compulsory for the graduates to donate the $100 allowed by the Board for gift books for the graduates, to purchase books for the library, or if the money could be used for some other purpose. He said nothing definite had been decided by the seniors, in fact it had not as yet been put up to the class. Sirott said that it had been suggested that the money be given to the athletic field fund instead of being spent for the books as in former years.

When the Board acted upon the subject later during the evening, it was decided to appropriate the $100 as a gift to the seniors, with the Board's permission to either spend the money for books for the library or donate it to the athletic field fund.

Property committee reported upon a number of repairs contemplated to be made during the summer months at the various buildings.

Contract for painting the interior and exterior of the Bath street building was awarded to John Burns for the sum of $2,830. The basement of the building not included.

Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of schools, presented the report and some recommendations of David Hertzler, high school principal. These were adopted.

Mrs. E. J. Fleming was elected as a permanent teacher as was also Miss Jean Rosser.

The resignation of Miss Viola Monaco was accepted.

Mr. Hertzler was named to attend a high school conference at West Chester.

POSTWAR GOLD RUSH

Postwar prosperity is an engaging wartime topic. Deprived of many things that contributed to the American high standard of living, now that the factories are working for war, people naturally look forward to better times than hitherto experienced. Thus captivated fancy runs ahead of more realistic considerations in respect to post-war developments.

Perhaps prospects of postwar prosperity should be weighed in connection with current wartime prosperity, as both have much to do with the effects of war. With the expansion of national income during the war years has come "an appearance of prosperity, but it is a false kind of prosperity purchased at a tremendous price," warns Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric Company, in the company's yearly report to employees.

"We are paying in taxes for less than half the cost of the war as we go," continues Mr. Wilson. "The balance is borrowed. After the war it will have to be paid back by hard work on the part of all of us. Our country has an abnormally expanded industrial activity that is operating on borrowed money to produce goods whose only function is to destroy and be destroyed."

There are many persons better situated financially than they ever have been in their whole lives. But, as Mr. Wilson points out, the present cannot economically be dissociated from the future. It is obvious that much of the money that is available to earning power today is government money raised by loans. Aside from the question of when—or how—these loans are to be repaid, the carrying charges will continue for an indefinite length of time to affect the financial situation of everyone.

The cost of war to the world is incalculable. The reconstruction period—as after every war—will be attended by great stress and strain, and adjustment will involve hardships. Doubtless there will be great fields of opportunity open to capital and enterprise, as yet only casually envisioned, but they will be conditioned on many inflexible factors of established economy. Prosperity is not available to the insolvent.

The only valid way for the individual to anticipate postwar prosperity is to save his money and as far as possible clear himself of financial obligations. It will give him a head-start not afforded by mere dreaming.

ONCE UPON A TIME

There was a time in American life when it was the banker who rested none too well of nights. The Dillingers and their under-studies roamed the countryside. And when the alarm was flashed to the police, it was always the bank that had been robbed.

How times have changed. There is rarely news of banks being robbed any more.

Now, the bandits have turned to union headquarters. Witness the raid on the United Rubber Workers office in Indianapolis several days ago. The loot was $6,637, a tidy figure reminiscent of the old banking days.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Argus smiled. "Did Stoffsky have any visitors?"

"I dunno. I never see one."

"Well, thanks," said the detective. "If this guy Stoffsky should come back, which I hardly believe likely, call the police immediately."

"I will, mister," promised the Swede, fervently.

Argus returned to the second floor, carrying the garbage pail. "Get anything out of that Swede?" Inspector Grange asked.

"I questioned him when I first came in, but I'm going to ask him a few more things."

Argus told him the substance of his conversation.

"Well," said Grange, "I didn't get much more out of him myself. But I think I've got the solution: Redbeard was an inventor, and some one paid him to build this machine and set it up in Syria's apartment. Now, just who Redbeard is doesn't matter for the moment. The person we want is the one behind the crime."

"Yes?" questioned Argus.

"And that some one might be Carstairs, Sr. He had the motive and the money to pay plenty for such a service. Incidentally, what was he doing at your apartment this morning?" Grange laughed at Steele's surprised expression.

"We've been tailing him," he explained.

"He swooped down on me like a blitz of buzzards," said Argus, "and offered to buy back his check."

"Well, you see?" stressed Grange. "He knows that's the evidence that will stand up in court to prove his connection with Syria Verne—and probably Martinelli, through her."

"He tried to tell me," Argus said, "that the check was just a little consolation prize to make up for his son's dishonorable intentions."

"Applesauce!" snapped Grange. "He wouldn't have run the risk of openly trying to buy the check back if his only worry was that Syria might have sued Bill for alienation of affections. And he's too cagey a business man not to have gotten a written release from her, if that was it. No, sir!"

Grange's eyes narrowed and he shook his finger for emphasis. "You remember, I've thought ever since we went to the Whitsun Club that old man Carstairs might have brain-trusted this whole thing—and just hired Redbeard."

"Of course," he continued reflectively, "the same could be said of his son, Bill or even of Bill's wife, Dorry. Say!" Grange broke off, "I've been doing' all the talkin' here. What's your theory on this Redbeard?"

"First I'd like to know whether Steele's shop stopped naturally, or whether somebody tampered with it after he was shot," Argus said. "The doc said rigor mortis had set in and he figures he was murdered about ten o'clock last night. It couldn't have been this morning because there hasn't been enough time for rigor mortis."

"So what?" posed Grange.

"So I figure—as you suggested a while ago—that Sturgis must have gotten wise to who this Redbeard was," Argus explained, "and where he had his hideout. So he comes up here."

"Maybe while Redbeard is out shooting Flagg," the Inspector interrupted, "and going through Sturgis' papers at his studio."

"Possibly," suggested Argus. "But, in any case, Redbeard returns here, finds Sturgis, shoots him and skeedaddles." He paused a moment. "I'm just wondering who was shot first—Sturgis or Roger Flagg—and if there were any connections."

"Did you find anything in that trash pail?" Grange asked, noticing it for the first time. Argus showed him.

"That newspaper story is last night's paper must've scared him plenty," Detective Steele said. "And I think this torn bit of newspaper may give us a clue to Syria's hideout in the country." He spread out the sticker. "Those last two letters of 'Gallahan'—Syria's real name. 'Rd.' probably stands for Road, and 'ey' is all that's left of 'New Jersey.' Apparently the paper was mailed to her. You can find out easily enough what New Jersey newspaper this is from the type font and the head-lines. Then check with their circulation department and you can get her address."

"Gallahan—well, it might be that," Grange grunted.

"I have a plan," went on Argus. "I—He heard a familiar voice outside the door. "Wait a minute!" He pulled open the door. Then he exclaimed: "Butch!"

"Boss—Boss," he was out of breath. "That dumb head-quarters flatties wouldn't tell me where you wuz." He gulped. "They got—Ellen—Miss Ellen, boss."

Argus grabbed his arm and shook him.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)
Pastor
Bristol Presbyterian Church

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, Who through Thy Son Jesus Christ hast established Thine eternal Kingdom, we desire that Thy Kingdom come and Thy will be done in our hearts, our homes, our community, our country and in all the earth. We know that the Kingdom may not be ushered in until individual hearts are consecrated to Thee. We know that we alone are responsible for the relationship which must exist between self and God. To this end we here and now offer unto Thee our bodies, our minds, our reputations, our characters and our lives, and ask Thee to use each and all as seems best to Thee. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Meat Extender Dish Keeps Meat In Meal

Although meat extender dishes usually do not have the same food value that an all meat dish has, they do help to keep meat in the meal. Jessie Alice Cline, home economist, explains that this is important for two reasons that are frequently overlooked:

(1) Meat adds satisfaction to meals, for people like meat. By stretching meat it can be served in more meals than it could otherwise.

(2) Meat stimulates the flow of digestive juices and thus aids the digestion of other foods; food must be digested before it can be utilized by the body.

Meat extender dishes make it possible to bring the advantages of meat to more meals, despite rationing. Here is a delicious meat extender dish.

Creamed Ground Beef on Toast
1 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons drippings
1 onion, grated

6 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
Salt and pepper
6 slices toast

Brown meat in its own fat in pan on top of range, stirring frequently. Cook slowly so as not to harden the meat. Make sauce in another pan or kettle by melting the fat and cooking the onion in it; blend flour thoroughly with fat and onion. Add the milk to the fat and flour mixture, stirring gradually and bring to the boiling point. Add seasonings. Pour sauce over browned meat and simmer (not boil) until meat is cooked. Add salt and pepper if necessary.

Chopped green pepper and a teaspoon of Worcestershire Sauce may be added to sauce and simmered with the meat, if desired. Serve over toast. Serves 6.

This amount of meat may be extended to make 8 servings by increasing the milk to 4 cups and the flour to 8 tablespoons; 4 tablespoons of meat drippings will be needed.

FLEETWINGS NINE HALTS OFFICERS' WINNING STREAK

Triumph Puts Localites Closer To Second Place CREDIT TO DE RISI Holds League-Leaders To Seven Hits; Near Shut-Out Victory

Scoring twice in the last inning, the Fleetwings team halted the 13-game winning streak of the Prison Officers last evening on the high school field. The triumph, the sixth of the Trenton Industrial League, put the airplane workers closer to second place in the standing. Again it was the pitching arm of "Mike" DeRisi that scored the victory for the Wingers. Mike held the league-leaders to seven hits and would have scored a shutout victory but for Johnny Coffee. In the second after Ott had singled, Coffee caught hold of one of DeRisi's fast ones and sent it out for a home run. The other five hits were widely scattered, Mike not allowing any more than one hit in any one inning. In fact, from the second inning on, the Prison Officers never had more than one runner on base at any one time. DeRisi walked three batters and was aided by errorless support with two double-plays. Jack McAuliffe was the starting Officers' hurler and he gave way to Stout in the seventh. Stout was the losing moundman as the Wingers scored their pair of winning tallies while he was throwing them in.

It was Ashby who started the Fleetwings team off in the ninth by drawing a walk. He was sacrificed to second and scored on DeRisi's hit. Sal Pappaterra followed with a two-bagger and DeRisi reached third. Pfaffenrath was sent in to run for DeRisi. Heiser went out for the second out of the inning and when the ball became loose in the infield, Pfaffenrath made a dash for the plate and scored.

The other Fleetwings run was the result of walks to Pappaterra and Walker, a hit batsman, and a single by Claude Lodge.

KNOW YOUR STATE

Recently released figures of power production reveal that, in the month of March, Pennsylvania produced 1,570,700,000 kilowatt hours of electrical energy, an increase of 8 1/2 per cent over the previous month. Pennsylvania is the second state in the Union in total production of electrical energy and the largest consumer for this purpose in the United States. The Commonwealth is also a large producer of electricity through the use of water power. Its March production of 242 million kilowatt hours through its hydro-electric generators was more than twice its production in the preceding month. It is somewhat difficult to appreciate what such an enormous output of electrical energy really means in terms of ordinary experience. Pennsylvania's output for the month of March is equivalent to the electricity required to maintain 54 million 50-watt lamps burning 24 hours a day, but even this enormous output of energy is far from measuring the full contribution which Pennsylvania is now making to the energy resources of the United States. A large portion of the fuel energy used in electrical production in New York and other neighboring states is released by the burning of Pennsylvania coal. It is, therefore, not surprising that Pennsylvania was listed by the National Resources Planning Board as leading the entire United States in its output of energy to turn the wheels of the vast machinery of peace and war.

Croydon Council Will Meet This Evening

CROYDON, June 6—The Croydon Advisory Council points with pride to the latest accomplishment in its effort to improve the community. Through the splendid co-operation of the State Highway Department, there has been painted on the Bristol Pike, State Road and Cedar avenue, a white line in the center, for the purpose of eliminating reckless driving, aid to night driving and inclement weather, especially fog.

While it may seem a trivial matter to accomplish the above, the fact remains there is a decided shortage of manpower and material which could have caused a postponement of this work, but because the Council pursued this matter to a conclusion, a theory became possible, says a spokesman for the association. It is the intention of the Council to receive suggestions that will benefit the community, and residents are asked to take them to the Croydon fire house, tonight, at 8.30 p. m.

RECOGNITION URGED ALLENTOWN, Pa. — (INS) — A special uniform, button or arm band insignia for American farm boys was suggested by Secretary of Agriculture Miles Horst at a recent meeting of the Allentown Industrial Club. He maintained such recognition would stimulate the public to appreciate "the real farm boy, who is criticized for not being in uniform."

France Looms As A Major Problem

Continued from Page One victory, aggressively has followed the symbol of the swastika. He was a member of the Cagoulard, the hooded Fascist organization that plagued France even before the war. Then he donned the uniform of the Waffen S. S. as one of Hitler's foreign mercenaries. Now he has become the police chief of his country and is known far and wide as the Himmler of France. Behind Darnand come two other prominent Nazi-minded Vichyites, Marcel Deat, Minister of Labor, responsible for the recruiting of labor for German factories, and Philippe Henriot, Minister of Propaganda. The Allied difficulties will not come from these clearly branded men but from the countless hangers-on, the local bosses and ward-healers who have worked for Vichy and Berlin and who undoubtedly will try to change colors whenever an Allied victory appears imminent. On the other side of the fence is the resistance movement, hardy, persistent and unending despite four years of terroristic repression, nation-wide dragnets and the mass killing of hostages. No one knows just how much aid the resistance movement will give to invasion troops but there is no doubt that it will produce leaders, who may aid in easing political problems. Latest reports of the maquis, for instance, reveal that armed patriots exist in several areas of France. The maquis of the Haute-Savoie, named after the old brigand gangs of Corsica and largely initiated when Frenchmen drafted for labor in Germany took to the forests instead, is the best known but there are other groups of resistors also claiming the name. There is one maquis area in the Pyrenees and another south of Vichy itself in the Auvergne Mountains. The hills of the Vosges are understood to hide more patriots while in Brittany, where the struggle is of a different kind, the resistance movement claims the support of 97 per cent of the population. And in almost every town and village there are men and women who work in devious ways for the freedom of France. The best efforts of Darnand's Militia and the Gestapo have failed to stamp out wave after wave of sabotage, wrecked troop trains and bombed German barracks. Peasants, at the risk of their lives, provide food for the maquis and shepherds keep watch for the enemy. In one instance the Germans destroyed 400 farms in the Ain department because the countryside was believed to be aiding patriots. Between the two extremes of armed insurrection and bold collaboration with the Nazis, thousands of other Frenchmen struggle to survive, hindering the Germans a little here, compromising a little there in order to eat. These Frenchmen, too, will have something to say about the political future of France. They will want food and jobs. All in all, General Eisenhower and the officers on his civil affairs staff will have plenty of work and a few headaches when the liberation of France dawns.

World's Biggest Circus Will Show In Phila.

The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, always predominating in gaiety and color, and this season gleefully greater, more brilliantly bedecked and vastly superior in the matter of music, will exhibit in Philadelphia, Erie avenue and G street, 11 days, beginning tonight and continuing through June 17th. Bringing to that city 1,600 people, 50 elephants, hundreds of pure-bred horses, and a mammoth new menagerie, including Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua, world famous giant gorillas, The Greatest Show On Earth will present the most colorful and amazing performance in its glorious history. Produced by Robert Ringling, Aubrey Haley and Mrs. Charles Ringling, the 1944 edition of the Big Show features the gorgeous new super-spectacle, "Pantos Paradise," starring Emmett Kelley, internationally-renowned clown pantomimist. This whimsical and fantastic pageant brings forth a seemingly endless procession of high jinks by the entire fun contingent of the circus.

2 Men Held for Court After Hearing Here

Continued from Page One stolen household furniture and equipment. He is said to have given some of it to Vandine, and some to relatives. Chief Linford J. Jones told Justice Arthur P. Brady, before whom the hearing was held, that the police had received a complaint from Spencer brothers reporting the theft of some articles. Upon investigation they found some of the missing furniture in Vandine's house on Pine street and also in a new house to which he was moving on Green Lane. Other furniture was found at the Green residence on Swain street. All of the furniture was identified by Spencer. Edgar Spencer, in testifying, said various articles had been missing for sometime and that finally a radio which he had brought to the store from his own residence for storage and which later had been advertised for sale, had had the chassis and speaker removed from the cabinet. The police were informed and the investigation started. The radio was found and this led to further investigation. Mr. Spencer said that he and the police went to the Green residence and picked out the various pieces of furniture which they could identify and that after this had been done Green then admitted that the articles belonged to Spencer. Mr. Spencer and the police then visited the Vandine houses and found additional articles. Mr. Spencer said that when Green was questioned about taking articles from the store, he denied it, saying that he had not taken anything and would not do so because "you have been so good to me." The witness also testified that when he, Chief Jones, Chief County Detective Russo, and a state trooper visited the Green and Vandine homes that they had to pick out each piece of furniture and identify it before it was admitted by either of the men that it belonged to Spencer. When questioned at police headquarters both Green and Vandine are said to have admitted their guilt. It required two trucks to haul the loot back to the Spencer warehouse and the value of it is given as about $1,250. Some of the loot was found stored in the attic of Vandine's new house. Included in the loot recovered was bedroom suit, electric washer, electric mangle, electric toasters, mattresses, clocks, radios, carpet, baby coach, and etc. Green and Vandine were represented by L. L. Rubin, Esq., but neither testified, other than to admit that they had signed the statements which the police exhibited. Green had been employed by the Spencer for about two years.

AN ALLIED CAMP SOME-
WHERE IN ENGLAND, June 6—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower pressed the button for Allied invasion of Europe early today from this tented camp in the depth of the sleeping English countryside.

Here in a motor trailer he is directing the first phase of history's greatest amphibious operation far from his great base headquarters and surrounded only by a nucleus unit of his field commanders and his ace staff officers. It was at night that Eisenhower, serene and confident, made his great decision.
Final weather forecasts determined the choice and next morning the supreme commander held another conference to confirm it.

By Kingsbury Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Supported by 11,000 planes, thousands of ships and hundreds of massive guns, American British and Allied troops landed in France by barge, glider and parachute today in an effort to seize the whole coast between Le Havre and Cherbourg and all indications pointed to success in the initial stages.

Some time after Gen. Dwight D.
Eisenhower gave the signal for invasion to launch the long-awaited
Battle of Europe, Prime Minister Winston Churchill went before the House of Commons to report that airborne aspects of the stupendous operations had been "successfully effected" while landings from the sea were still in progress.

At intervals of only a few minutes during the day, German broadcasting stations and the official propaganda agency DNE reported continued new Allied landings at numerous points under an overwhelming aerial cover and naval barrage.

Reports from operational commanders said the invasion was proceeding according to plan—and as Churchill put it—"what a plan!"

The German air force apparently offered little opposition and many of the enemy's shore batteries were knocked out of action, while Churchill said that German sea fortifications had proved far less formidable than anticipated.

Midget "Subs" Aid in "D" Day; Secretly Mark The Invasion Coast

NEW YORK, June 6—(INS)—David Anderson, NBC reporter in London, said today that midget submarines of the Allied forces had been carrying out secret operations for the past three days placing markers on the invasion coast to guide landing craft to selected beaching points.
Anderson also revealed that under orders from Gen. Eisenhower all Allied planes went into action for the first time this morning bearing the new insignia of United Nations aircraft. This was done, he said, to simplify identification.

FRANCE LOOMS AS
A MAJOR PROBLEMProblem Faces Gen. Dwight
D. Eisenhower As A Political Headache

A KNOTTY QUESTION

By William W. Wade
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 6—(INS)—The great problem of France torn by Nazi rule and France soon to be redeemed today faces General Dwight D. Eisenhower as one of the foremost of his political-military headaches.

The liberation of North Africa,
the occupation of Sicily and the invasion of Italy brought knotty, sometimes unpredictable political issues in their wake and even now
the freeing of France promises to do the same.

Frenchmen in and out of their country are dreaming of this freedom; other Frenchmen, those who are riding the Nazi tiger, are dreading it. But even among those who hope for liberation, and who also are on Allied territory and hence are able to speak, there is no great unanimity of future national aims.

Apparent friction between De-Gaulle and Girard, failure of the United States to recognize unqualifiedly the French Committee of National Liberation and dissatisfaction in Algiers over Britain's ban on the movement of diplomats already have foreshadowed other international stresses and strains.

But whatever friction there is among Frenchmen outside France, it is nothing compared with the strife and hatred within the country. So tense is the situation that even aging Marshal Petain has seen fit to warn of the danger of outright civil war.

This state of internal conflict, presently still under German and Vichy control, has produced enough information to give the Allies some guide as to who the main French collaborationists are. Certain of the leaders of Vichy definitely can be placed on the United Nations blacklist; others are more doubtful.

No one, either inside or outside France, regards Petain as an effective leader. It is possible that the Allies will be able to offer him honorable surrender and retirement.

Pierre Laval, notorious for his pasty complexion, shifty eyes and white ties, cannot be regarded as anything but an enemy by free Frenchmen and the resistance movement. He has long since thrown in his lot with the Germans and probably will be listed as Traitor No. 1.

Claire behind him and today even considered as a contestant for first place is Joseph Darnand, who in recent months has become the most prominent tool of the Germans.

Darnand, long convinced of Nazi

INVASION ADVANCING
ACCORDING TO PLAN;
"AND WHAT A PLAN,"
STATES CHURCHILL

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Mass Allied airborne landings have been successfully effected behind the enemy lines in France, Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced in the House of Commons today.

"Landings on the beaches are proceeding at various points," he said.

"An armada of upwards of 4,000
ships with several thousand smaller craft have crossed the Channel," Churchill said.

"Massed airborne landings have been successfully effected behind the enemy's lines.

"This is the first of a series of landings in force on the European continent. Landings on the beaches are proceeding at various points.

"So far the commanders engaged report that everything is proceeding according to plan—and what a plan.

"This vast operation is undoubtedly the most complicated and difficult that has ever occurred. . . .
"We shall furnish the enemy with a succession of surprises during the course of the fighting. The battle will grow constantly in scale and intensity for many weeks to come.

"I shall not attempt to speculate upon its course but this I may say —that complete unity prevails
throughout the Allied armies.

"There is a brotherhood in arms between us and our friends of the United States.

"The ardor and spirit of our troops, as I saw for myself as they were embarking in the last few days, was splendid to witness."

The Prime Minister indicated he would announce further news later in the day.

ARRAY OF WARSHIPS

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Allied invasion troops opened the Battle of Europe today with a deep penetration by American and British parachute forces far behind the coast of northern France and landing in overwhelming strength along the beaches between the Seine River and Cherbourg.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower
launched the long-awaited attack with an order of the day in which he proclaimed:

"We will accept nothing less than American, British and Canadian warships in stupendous array and ranging from battleships down to landing craft escorts supported the cross-Channel landings while the Allied air force operating in enormous strength shielded the parachutists.

German broadcasts reported heavy fighting in the vicinity of Caen, 7½ miles inland and said that paratroop landings had been made at numerous points between Cherbourg and Le Havre.

"D" DAY BRIEFS

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—The Admiralty announced today that "further large areas" of the Bay of Biscay and the English Channel approaches now are mined and dangerous to shipping entering without permission.

NEW YORK, June 6—(INS)—A small group of German destroyers was "wiped out" by Allied warships in the preliminary phase of the northern France invasion, a Blue Network reporter announced today
from London.

LONDON, June 6—(INS)—Special invasion services were held in Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral and churches throughout the United Kingdom today. The House of Commons went into session.

CALL TO PRAYER

"If My people which are called by My name shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek My face, and turn from their wicked ways, then will I hear from Heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal
their land". (2nd Chron. 7:14).

Today is a day of prayer
throughout the land. Anticipating
"D" day, pastors and priests had suggested that their people enter the church of their choice on the day when the European invasion
by Allied troops opened. Today is that day.

In following this plan many churches in Bristol and vicinity are open throughout today and this evening, also some on subsequent days, to afford those who desire an opportunity to enter for prayer—prayer for guidance for Allied leaders, and strength for the men and women of the armed forces.

A union prayer service of Bristol churches is arranged for this evening at the hour of seven in Bristol Methodist Church. Pastors are invited to participate,
and all individuals are welcome
to join this service.

Pastors and priests of the following churches will be open throughout today for the purpose of prayer: Bristol Presbyterian,
First Baptist, St. Mark's Catholic, Bristol Methodist, Calvary
Baptist, St. James' Episcopal, St.
Ann's Catholic. On subsequent days the two catholic churches,
also St. James' and Calvary Battist will also be open. In Calvary Baptist Church tomorrow evening at eight o'clock there will be a special call to prayer, and in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Croydon, a prayer meeting is arranged for tonight at eight.

Two Men Held For Court
After Early Morning Fight

Benjamin Fusco, Radcliffe and Monroe streets, was held in $500
bail yesterday charged with surety
of peace and disorderly conduct.
The charges were preferred by Miss Vivienne Holden, while the charge of assault and battery was lodged by Joseph Popkin.

John Carleo, Cedar street, was held in $1200 bail for court charged with assault and battery by Popkin
and assault and battery by Miss Holden and charged with malicious mischievous by Linford J. Jones, chief of police.

The charges were the outgrowth of an argument and a fight between Popkin and Carleo which occurred at Pond and Mulberry streets early Monday morning. Popkin, accompanied by Miss Holden and Mrs.
Benjamin Fusco, told Justice of Peace Edward Lynn that while they were driving along the Bristol
Pike at Tullytown early Monday morning, Fusco stopped them at Tullytown and argued with Popkin and endeavored to drag him from his automobile.

Popkin started the car, it is said,
while Fusco was on the running board and then Fusco jumped off.
Popkin drove to the Municipal Building and while en route was halted when the Fusco automobile
"cut-in" front of him on Pond
street.

All parties met at Pond and Mulberry streets, and it is there that the alleged fight took place. Pop-kin and Carleo went through the hedge and damaged it and then Miss Holden said that one of the two grabbed her and tore her dress.
She said Carleo struck her across the face.

Carleo also flooded the cell in the police station and it was on the charge of damaging borough's property that he was charged by Chief Jones.

LOCALITES INDUCTED INTO NAVY TODAYClergyman Reminds This Is
Not Time for Hilarity,
Rather for Prayer

FAREWELL PRESENTS

The ten U. S. Navy inductees who gathered before the headquarters of Local Selective Service Board,
No. 1, at the post office building
this morning, were bidden Godspeed with news of "D" day ringing in their ears.

As they prepared to leave for the induction center in Philadelphia, to begin their naval training, the men who are to thus serve their country as well as others who gathered to bid them farewell, were reminded by the Rev. Lehman Strauss that today is not a time for jubilation and hilarity, but rather a day for prayer. The pastor of Calvary Battist Church, who offered prayer at the brief ceremony just before the young men boarded the train, admonished that if any have in the past neglected God "today is the day to seriously consider returning to Him. . . . If ever there was a time to pray and to draw near to God
through the Lord Jesus Christ now is that time."

The selectees were presented with gifts by the "36 for Victory."

STUDENTS AGAIN
ASK SCHOOL BOARD
ABOUT THE FIELDGroup Attends Meeting and Inquires If Any Action
Has Been Taken

GIFT BOOK INQUIRY

Ask Permission To Spend
$100 Book Appropriation
For Some Other Purpose

Three seniors and one junior, Bristol high school students, attended the school board meeting last night. Two of them addressed the body.

Calvin Solla, asked the Board if any action had been taken upon the petition recently filed with the Board by the student body in which reconstruction of the high school athletic field was requested.

President of the Board McEneen replied that the Finance Committee of the Board was making a survey to determine some of the things necessary for the betterment of the schools and that this survey had not as yet been completed.

Jack Sirott inquired if it was compulsory for the graduates to donate the $100 allowed by the Board for gift books for the graduates, to purchase books for the library, or if the money could be used for some other purpose. He said nothing definite had been decided by the seniors, in fact it had not as yet been put up to the class.
Sirott said that it had been suggested that the money be given to the athletic field fund instead of being spent for the books as in former years.

When the Board acted upon the subject later during the evening, it was decided to appropriate the $100 as a gift to the seniors, with the Board's permission to either spend the money for books for the library or donate it to the athletic field fund.

Property committee reported
upon a number of repairs contemplated to be made during the summer months at the various buildings.

Contract for painting the interior
and exterior of the Bath street building was awarded to John Burns for the sum of $2,830. The basement of the building not included.

Warren P. Snyder, superintendent of schools, presented the report and some recommendations of David Hertzler, high school principal. These were adopted.

Mrs. E. J. Fleming was elected as a permanent teacher as was also Miss Jean Rosser.

The resignation of Miss Viola
Monaco was accepted.

Mr. Hertzler was named to attend
a high school conference at West Chester.

POSTWAR GOLD RUSH

Postwar prosperity is an engaging wartime topic. Deprived of many things that contributed to the American high standard of living, now that the factories are working for war, people naturally look forward to better times than hitherto experienced. Thus captivated fancy runs ahead of more realistic considerations in respect to post-war developments.

Perhaps prospects of postwar prosperity should be weighed in connection with current wartime prosperity, as both have much to do with the effects of war. With the expansion of national income during the war years has come "an appearance of prosperity, but it is a false kind of prosperity purchased at a tremendous price," warns Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric Company, in the company's yearly report to employees.

"We are paying in taxes for less than half the cost of the war as we go," continues Mr. Wilson. "The balance is borrowed. After the war it will have to be paid back by hard work on the part of all of us. Our country has an abnormally expanded industrial activity that is operating on borrowed money to produce goods whose only function is to destroy and be destroyed."

There are many persons better situated financially than they ever have been in their whole lives. But, as Mr. Wilson points out, the present cannot economically be dissociated from the future. It is obvious that much of the money that is available to earning power today is government money raised by loans. Aside from the question of when—or how—these loans are to be repaid, the carrying charges will continue for an indefinite length of time to affect the financial situation of everyone.

The cost of war to the world is incalculable. The reconstruction period—as after every war—will be attended by great stress and strain, and adjustment will involve hardships. Doubtless there will be great fields of opportunity open to capital and enterprise, as yet only casually envisioned, but they will be conditioned on many inflexible factors of established economy. Prosperity is not available to the insolvent.

The only valid way for the individual to anticipate postwar prosperity is to save his money and as far as possible clear himself of financial obligations. It will give him a head-start not afforded by mere dreaming.

ONCE UPON A TIME

There was a time in American life when the banker who rested none too well of nights. The Dillingers and their understudies roamed the countryside. And when the alarm was flashed to the police, it was always the bank that had been robbed.

How times have changed. There is rarely news of banks being robbed any more.

Now, the bandits have turned to union headquarters. Witness the raid on the United Rubber Workers office in Indianapolis several days ago. The loot was $6,637, a tidy figure reminiscent of the old banking days.

A Model is Murdered ~ BABS LEE

CHAPTER THIRTY-SIX

Argus smiled. "Did Stoffy have any visitors?"

"I dunno. I never see one."

"Well, thanks," said the detective. "If this guy Stoffy should come back, which I hardly believe likely, call the police immediately."

"I will, mister," promised the Swede, fervently.

Argus returned to the second floor, carrying the garbage pail.

"Get anything out of that Swede?" Inspector Grange asked.

"I questioned him when I first came in, but I'm going to ask him a few more things."

Argus told him the substance of his conversation.

"Well," said Grange, "I didn't get much more out of him myself. But I think I've got the solution: Redbeard was an inventor, and some one paid him to build his machine and set it up in Syria's apartment. Now, just who Redbeard is doesn't matter for the moment. The person we want is the one behind the crime."

"Yes?" questioned Argus.

"And that some one might be Carstairs, Sr. He had the motive and the money to pay plenty for such a service. Incidentally, what was he doing at your apartment this morning?" Grange laughed at Steele's surprised expression.

"We've been talking him," he explained.

"He swooped down on me like a blitz of buzzards," said Argus, "and offered to buy back his check."

"Well, you see?" stressed Grange. "He knows that's the evidence that will stand up in court to prove his connection with Syria Verne—and probably Martinelli, through her."

"He tried to tell me," Argus said, "that the check was just a little consolation prize to make up for his son's dishonorable intentions."

"Applesauce!" snapped Grange. "He wouldn't have run the risk of openly trying to buy the check back if his only worry was that Syria might have sued Bill for alienation of affections. And he's too cagey a business man not to have gotten a written release from her, if that was it. No, sir!"

Grange's eyes narrowed and he shook his finger for emphasis.

"You remember, I've thought ever since we went to the Whitsun Club that old man Carstairs might have brain-trusted this whole thing—and just hired Redbeard."

"Of course," he continued reflectively, "the same could be said of his son, Bill, or even of Bill's wife, Dorry. Say! Grange broke off. "I've been doin' all the talkin' here. What's your theory on this aedward?"

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, who through Thy Son Jesus Christ hast established Thine eternal Kingdom, we desire that Thy Kingdom come and Thy will be done in our hearts, our homes, our community, our country and in all the earth. We know that the Kingdom may not be ushered in until individual hearts are consecrated to Thee. We know that we alone are responsible for the relationship which must exist between self and God. To this end we here and now offer unto Thee our bodies, our minds, our reputations, our characters and our lives, and ask Thee to use each and all as seems best to Thee. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Meat Extender Dish Keeps Meat In Meal

Although meat extender dishes usually do not have the same food value that an all meat dish has, they do help to keep meat in the meal. Jessie Alice Cline, home economist, explains that this is important for two reasons that are frequently overlooked:

(1) Meat adds satisfaction to meals, for people like meat. By stretching meat it can be served in more meals than it could otherwise.

(2) Meat stimulates the flow of digestive juices and thus aids the digestion of other foods; food must be digested before it can be utilized by the body.

Meat extender dishes make it possible to bring the advantages of meat to more meals, despite rationing. Here is a delicious meat extender dish.

Creamed Ground Beef on Toast
1 pound ground beef
3 tablespoons drippings
1 onion, grated

6 tablespoons flour
3 cups milk
Salt and pepper
6 slices toast

Brown meat in its own fat in pan on top of range, stirring frequently. Cook slowly so as not to harden the meat. Make sauce in another pan or kettle by melting the fat and cooking the onion in it. Blend flour thoroughly with fat and onion. Add the milk to the fat and flour mixture, stirring gradually and bring to the boiling point. Add seasonings. Pour sauce over browned meat and simmer (not boil) until meat is cooked. Add salt and pepper if necessary.

Chopped green pepper and a teaspoon of Worcestershire Sauce may be added to sauce and simmered with the meat, if desired. Serve over toast. Serves 6.

This amount of meat may be extended to make 8 servings by increasing the milk to 4 cups and the flour to 8 tablespoons; 4 tablespoons of meat drippings will be needed.

FLEETWINGS NINE HALTS OFFICERS' WINNING STREAK

Triumph Puts Localites Closer To Second Place

CREDIT TO DE RISI

Holds League-Leaders To Seven Hits; Near Shut-Out Victory

Scoring twice in the last inning, the Fleetwings team halted the 13-game winning streak of the Prison Officers last evening on the high school field. The triumph, the sixth of the Trenton Industrial League, put the airplane workers closer to second place in the standing.

Again it was the pitching arm of "Mike" DeRisi that scored the victory for the Wingers. Mike held the league-leaders to seven hits and would have scored a shutout victory but for Johnny Coffee. In the second after Ott had singled, Coffee caught hold of one of DeRisi's fast ones and sent it out for a home run.

The other five hits were widely scattered. Mike not allowing any more than one hit in any one inning. In fact, from the second inning on, the Prison Officers never had more than one runner on base at any one time. DeRisi walked three batters and was aided by errorless support with two double-plays.

Jack McAuliffe was the starting Officers' hurler and he gave way to Stout in the seventh. Stout was the losing moundsman as the Wingers scored their pair of winning tallies while he was throwing them in.

It was Ashby who started the Fleetwings team off in the ninth by drawing a walk. He was sacrificed to second and scored on DeRisi's hit. Sal Pappaterra followed with a two-bagger and DeRisi reached third. Pfaffenrath was sent in to run for DeRisi. Heister went out for the second out of the inning and when the ball became loose in the infield, Pfaffenrath made a dash for the plate and scored.

The other Fleetwings run was the result of walks to Pappaterra and Walker, a hit batsman, and a single by Claude Lodge.

Croydon Council Will Meet This Evening

CROYDON, June 6.—The Croydon Advisory Council points with pride to the latest accomplishment in its effort to improve the community.

Through the splendid co-operation of the State Highway Department, there has been painted on the Bristol Pike, State Road and Cedar avenue, a white line in the center, for the purpose of eliminating reckless driving, aid to night driving and inclement weather, especially fog.

While it may seem a trivial matter to accomplish the above, the fact remains there is a decided shortage of manpower and material which could have caused a postponement of this work, but because the Council pursued this matter to a conclusion, a theory became possible, says a spokesman for the association.

It is the intention of the Council to receive suggestions that will benefit the community, and residents are asked to take them to the Croydon fire house, tonight, at 8.30 p. m.

Navy To Accept Parts Made By Brewster

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—The Navy will continue to take aircraft parts from the Long Island City plant of the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation for about a week in order to complete tests on whether they can be used by other manufacturers of Corsair fighter planes, the War Production Board reported last night.

The WPB announcement came as officials of the Goodyear Aircraft Corp., of Akron, surveyed the plant to see if some of the Long Island City facilities could make parts for Goodyear which also produces Corsairs under Navy contract.

Charles W. Wilson, executive vice-chairman of WPB, said the parts taken during the experimental period will be used as replacements for Brewster Corsairs already in service.

Meanwhile, Mr. Wilson said, WPB was combing the country for munitions items which could be put into production at the Brewster plant on a permanent basis.

doubt that it will produce leaders, who may aid in easing political problems.

Latest reports of the maquis, for instance, reveal that armed patriots exist in several areas of France. The maquis of the Haute-Savoie, named after the old brigand gangs of Corsica and largely initiated when Frenchmen drafted for labor in Germany took to the forests instead, is the best known but there are other groups of resistors also claiming the name.

There is one maquis area in the Pyrenees and another south of Vichy itself in the Auvergne Mountains. The hills of the Vosges are understood to hide more patriots while in Brittany, where the struggle is of a different kind, the resistance movement claims the support of 97 per cent of the population.

And in almost every town and village there are men and women who work in devious ways for the freedom of France. The best efforts of Darnand's Militia and the Gestapo have failed to stamp out wave after wave of sabotage, wrecked troop trains and bombed German barracks.

Peasants, at the risk of their lives, provide food for the maquis and shepherds keep watch for the enemy. In one instance the Germans destroyed 400 farms in the Ain department because the countryside was believed to be aiding patriots.

Between the two extremes of armed insurrection and bold collaboration with the Nazis, thousands of other Frenchmen struggle to survive, hindering the Germans a little here, compromising a little there in order to eat. These Frenchmen, too, will have something to say about the political future of France. They will want food and jobs.

All in all, General Eisenhower and the officers on his civil affairs staff will have plenty of work and a few headaches when the liberation of France dawns.

World's Biggest Circus Will Show In Phila.

The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, always predominating in gaiety and color, and this season gleefully greater, more brilliantly bedecked and vastly superior in the matter of music, will exhibit in Philadelphia, Erie avenue and G street, 11 days, beginning tonight and continuing through June 17th.

Bringing to that city 1,600 people, 50 elephants, hundreds of pure-bred horses, and a mammoth new menagerie, including Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua, world famous giant gorillas, The Greatest Show On Earth will present the most colorful and amazing performance in its glorious history.

Produced by Robert Ringling, Aubrey Haley and Mrs. Charles Ringling, the 1944 edition of the Big Show features the gorgeous

new super-spectacle, "Pantos Paradise," starring Emmett Kelley, internationally-renowned clown pantomimist.

This whimsical and fantastic pageant brings forth a seemingly endless procession of high jinks by the entire fun contingent of the circus.

2 Men Held for Court After Hearing Here

stolen household furniture and equipment. He is said to have given some of it to Vandine, and some to relatives.

Chief Linford J. Jones told Justice Arthur P. Brady, before whom the hearing was held, that the police had received a complaint from Spencer brothers reporting the theft of some articles. Upon investigation they found some of the missing furniture in Vandine's house on Pine street and also in a new house to which he was moving on Green Lane.

Other furniture was found at the Green residence on Swain street.

All of the furniture was identified by Spencer. Edgar Spencer, in testifying, said various articles had been missing for sometime and that finally a radio which he had brought to the store from his own residence for storage and which later had been advertised for sale, had had the chassis and speaker removed from the cabinet. The police were informed and the investigation started. The radio was found and this led to further investigation.

Mr. Spencer said that he and the police went to the Green residence and picked out the various pieces of furniture which they could identify and that after this had been done Green then admitted that the articles belonged to Spencer.

Mr. Spencer and the police then visited the Vandine houses and found additional articles.

Mr. Spencer said that when Green was questioned about taking articles from the store, he denied it, saying that he had not taken anything and would not do so because "you have been so good to me."

The witness also testified that when he, Chief Jones, Chief County Detective Russo, and a state trooper visited the Green and Vandine homes that they had to pick out each piece of furniture and identify it before it was admitted by either of the men that it belonged to Spencer.

When questioned at police headquarters both Green and Vandine are said to have admitted their guilt. It required two trucks to haul the loot back to the Spencer warehouse and the value of it is given as about $1,250.

Some of the loot was found stored in the attic of Vandine's new house.

Included in the loot recovered was bedroom suit, electric washer, electric mangle, electric toasters, mattresses, clocks, radios, carpet, baby coach, and etc.

Green and Vandine were represented by I. L. Rubin, Esq., but neither testified, other than to admit that they had signed the statements which the police exhibited.

Green had been employed by Spencer for about two years.
